

“Your Dollar, Your World”

FREE High School Personal Finance and Economics Conference on Climate Change,
Human Rights and Workplace Practices

REGISTRATION NOW OPEN!!!!

Plus: Launch of the nation’s first “Green” division of the renowned Stock Market Game (SMG) for high school students

Tuesday, February 5, 2008 (snow date February 6, 2008)
UCONN STORRS campus – STUDENT UNION

Connecticut’s first ever conference on Climate Change, Human Rights and Workplace Practices will teach students about how these issues are affecting our global economy and how student’s financial decisions can make a difference.

Students and educators will hear national experts and industry leaders; attend provoking plenary discussions and elective workshops to learn about:

- How climate change is impacting the global economy and changing the way many companies operate through green-friendly business strategies and case models.
- How business labor practices can affect employee working conditions, wages and supplier relationships.
- How business practices can create more sustainable societies and strengthen local communities.
- What it means for a student to be a “responsible” and informed consumer, investor, employee or business person.
- Green careers
- PLUS: Students will learn about the new “Green” division of the Stock Market Game. (Registration on-site)

DON’T LET YOUR BUSINESS, ECONOMICS, SOCIAL STUDIES AND SCIENCE STUDENTS, STUDENT LEADERS AND COUNCIL MEMBERS, MODEL U.N. AND ENVIRONMENT/ECO CLUB MEMBERS MISS THIS EXCITING CONFERENCE!

(The event is being co-hosted by the Office of State Treasurer Denise L. Nappier, University of Connecticut (UConn) and the CT Council on Economic Education (CCEE), in collaboration with Bank of America, AIG Investments and other sponsoring corporate and foundation entities.)

Call Mike Trueworthy, CCEC, (860- 524-5603), trueworthy@djstrat.com or Madelyn Colon, Office of the State Treasurer, (860-702-3291), madelyn.colon@ct.gov for more information

